Good day Graham

I recently revisited this address, to find that the cold room & condenser units did not appear to have been replaced as had been advised in December, was due to happen. We dealt with complaints last year in relation to noise from one of the condenser units but this was resolved by replacing a part.

So at this time, I have no adverse comments to make with regard to the current new position of these units, and therefore no objection to the approval of this retrospective application.

If any future complaints were to be received in relation to noise from the units in question, these would be dealt with under other existing legislation.

Kind regards

Mark Moss
