

Flood Risk, 45 Alameda Road, Waterloooville, PO7 5HE

Please find attached below flood risk map taken from the government website which indicates our site to be in a high-risk floor zone.

The proposed design of the ground floor extension has already taken this into account in that the floor level in proposed areas is to line through with that of the existing building.

The existing conservatory is currently lower than the main habitable house structure meaning that its at a greater risk of flooding.
