

I now have responses on most of the points raised.

I am waiting for the tree pits sections but will pass these across once provided.

I have proposed a colour of Olive Green RAL for the pole and cabinet, but we could accommodate any other colour if you think another colour would be better suited to this location.

I can confirm that hand digging will be possible to avoid the concerns around existing tree roots.

I can confirm that should a substantial root be located the exact position of any proposed tree will be decided in consultation with the Landscape Architect prior to planting.

I hope to be back in touch with the tree pits sections in the next couple of days.

Kind regards
