

I'll send you a picture of my lawn – it's actually worse now than when I took the photos earlier today. I stress, the proposed building area of the field is lower than where the photos are taken (the far side of the field doesn't bear thing about) – I cannot get down to the bottom of my garden to see if the plants under cover need watering. No jest intended!

Next door's lawn – the water is coming in from both sides of the borders, and is about to join up with the pond. The fish will be able get out.

Happy weekend to you.
