

An architectural elevation rendering of a long, two-story residential building. The building features a mix of brick and wood siding, with several gabled roof sections. Large windows are visible on the ground floor, some with silhouettes of people inside. The background includes stylized trees and a clear sky.

A diagram of a cross-shaped structure, resembling a plus sign with a central square and four arms. The structure is composed of small squares. Four arrows point towards the center from the four cardinal directions: arrow 1 points down from the top, arrow 2 points left from the right, arrow 3 points up from the bottom, and arrow 4 points right from the left.
