Hi Emma,

I run a computer forensics consultancy from the said office and will continue to do so from the office included in the new home. The nature of the business is that we keep a low profile, do not have visitors (save maybe once a year) and do not take delivery of / maintain stock.

I have one employee who works a 3-day week.

In terms of activity caused by cars – I'm already onsite and the employee attends between 8:30 and 5:30 Monday to Wednesday. The work does take us offsite but generally that would be one or two occasions a week rather than any constant back and forth.

Regards,
