Comments

There does not appear to be any detail on the position or height of the flue, it's termination type, or any information on the appliance served. There is potential for avoidable nuisance issues to arise if the flue serves a solid fuel burner, and Environmental Health may wish to comment (object, specify criteria, or provide substantive advice).

It is not possible to make any meaningful contribution in the absence of this detail. If it is possible to obtain this from the applicant during the available period for determination, we should be able to turn around a response fairly quickly.
