Dear Mrs McMurray,

Planning Application APP/17/00694 6 Dwellings 11 East Street, Havant, PO9 1AB

Thank you for your recent consultation. The site lies within the historic core of Havant in an area described as having a high archaeological importance. It is very likely that important archaeological remains relating to the origins and development of Havant will be encountered during development. These origins include a Roman settlement. This development is close to the cross road of the Roman roads and is likely to be the focus of that Roman settlement. It also includes the Saxon and medieval development of the town. I note that the heritage statement does not address below ground archaeological issues.

I would recommend that an archaeological condition be attached to any planning permission to secure an appropriate level of archaeological excavation ahead of development. This will to some extent depend on the degree to which existing development might have compromised archaeological survival, but I would anticipate the burden of such an archaeological condition to be significant. However I note that the heritage statement submitted with the planning application does not address below ground archaeological issues. On that basis I would urge you to draw this matter to the attention of the applicant at the earliest opportunity.

Yours sincerely
David Hopkins
