

From what I understand the application is going ahead, which is no surprise. Someone is going to make a lot of money from these houses.

They may be called low cost, but they will be expensive because of the location