

Dear Sir/Madam

It is with a sense of horror that I read the attached email which arrived this afternoon.

During the last application you chose to ignore my prediction that there was something hidden behind the design and that further development was likely to take place behind the two dwellings you misguidedly approved.

I continue to believe you were wrong to grant permission for the development between 26 & 32 Padnell Road which included a CARPARK! Totally out of keeping with the location. Now we return to a modified version of the original application that was turned down at Appeal.

Please refer to all the previous objections and in particular the Building Line that has developed which this proposal pays zero deference and the nuisance that pedestrian traffic outside our window will inevitably cause.

This new application puts two fingers up to adjacent home owners and all those who protested before. Are we on some sort of merry-go-round where application after application keep being fired at Planning until you get worn down and so fed-up that the developer gets his way?? I hope you're not that weak!

Funny thing, way back at the beginning of this nightmare the daughter of the developer declared "We always get our way in the end." Is that the case? And there was me thinking you might be looking out for the interests of existing residents not some money grabbing developer from way outside the area.

Not happy!
