Hi David

This is fine.

The normalisation factor is a standard part of the calculation.

The units are likely to have the same amount of water use as on most sites they will fit the same appliances in each house type unless it's a very specialist development where customers have chosen their own bespoke units.

So all good 😊

Please note that from 6th April 2021 the cut off time to book an inspection for Havant Borough Council and East Hampshire District Council will be 4pm the day before an inspection is required. This is to ensure we can improve our service and carry out more inspections in the morning when customer demand is at its greatest.

Also, during the Covid 19 pandemic the Building Control service has reduced the number and frequency of site inspections it makes, only carrying out critical site visits. When requesting an inspection it is not confirmed until the Building Control Surveyor carrying out the inspection has spoken to your site representative and confirmed the visit.

Did you know that you can apply for Building Regulation approval at East Hampshire District Council and Havant Borough Council using the Planning Portal?
