This technical drawing is a detailed map of a residential street layout. It features a grid of streets with various colored lines (red, blue, green) indicating different types of roads or boundaries. Numerous small circles, some red and some blue, are scattered throughout the grid, each containing a number. These numbers are likely identifiers for specific locations or points of interest. The drawing is overlaid with a blue grid. Labels include "Mast (Telecommunication)" and "James's Copse".
