Comments

The scheme has been revised in accordance with earlier advice provided. The main fascia sign is no longer illuminated and adopts the scale and profile of the former bank fascia, which regains the relationship with the shopfront. The hanging sign adopts a more traditional form suitable for this historic town. External illumination using trough downlighters, commonly used for pub signs is now employed. The description of the proposal needs to be revised to reflect this, otherwise I am content for advert consent to be granted. Consideration could be given to restricting illumination to business hours.
