Daphney,

That's correct, no objection – the important thing is that we've established the intended scope of the submitted plan alongside the 'check' on that being appropriately interpreted & implemented. There's a public record of our consideration of the issue & recommendation for consistency (which should help untangle any confusion for anyone reviewing the application – e.g. the public) – there's no need to hold up the planning application having established the above.

Best Regards,

Jon
