Dear Mr Nash

Thank you for your earlier advise. Please find attached letter with further clarification received from installation engineer of my extract system.

I have tried to obtain an acoustic survey as per your requirement, however both noise and odour control survey will cost me £1,295+VAT each, which seems painfully expensive for me at this struggling moment in terms of finance. Therefore trying my best to persuade each and every avenue to stay within your legal frame. I know I have installed the best equipment and solution available in modern market and made sure that my system has double capacity in terms of noise and odour control than my premises actually requires.

Although my initial planning was for chinese and thai take away, However my Menu consists of cuisine from Indian and Thai dishes. All my Fusion dishes are Thai based recipe.

[REDACTED]

I can assure you all the standard been maintained with high specifications as installation carried out after designing Menu. I am confident that we will pass any inspection from any independent surveyor or inspector including Havant Borough Council. Recently I had Food and Hygiene officer from Havant Borough Council came to inspect my place and after thorough investigation he issued us rating 4 where 5 is the top. We missed 5 for fraction which is due to our lack of knowledge as this is my first venture. But he has praised our place in terms of high quality cleanliness, equipments and materials. He mentioned we have fitted everything and provided facilities more than the place required. We lost fraction of point as we could not fill in the books properly as we never did that before.

For the above circumstances, I would be very grateful if the authority could kindly grant thier judgement in my favour. I am requesting your consideration in order to save another small local business.

Your's Sincerely

Sabbir Ahmed
