Dear Sirs,

I am applying to cut down a Crataegus Monogyna (Hawthorn) that has a TPO placed upon it. The reason for the destruction of this tree is that it is progressively rotting at the base of its trunk. During last winter's high winds approximately half the tree broke away into our neighbour's garden. I am now concerned that the rot has continued to spread and the tree will lose a further primary part of its structure in next winter's storms. As this is a danger to children who play in both gardens I believe the tree should be removed urgently. I attach the appropriate "application for tree works" and two photos that show that only half the tree now remains and additionally a photo of the rotting trunk.

Yours Sincerely
