I was just worried that the red line was wrong but if it is the same as the previous application then the comment of the Highway Authority has no adverse comment to this application.

Hello Pip

Yes, access to the site is across a shared driveway. This was also the case with the previous application on the site (APP/13/01051), where there were no adverse highway comments. Please let me know if this is still causing you concern.

Thanks

Richard

Richard, if you look at the proposed and existing block plans it appears that the red line is not correct. It would appear that to gain access to the garage the resident would have to pass over land owned by Number 46. It is confusing as the design statement says "To the east of the plot is a 2 storey semi detached dwelling (46 Havant Road) which currently shares an access with 48 Havant Road". It could be that the proposed sweep into the proposed garage is drawn incorrectly. Can you cast any light on this apparent anomaly.
