Why you think permission should or should not be given

The proposed development is not in keeping with the adjacent buildings. The area surrounding the quayside is of great historical significance and the proposed buildings are too large in comparison with the adjacent public house. Apart from the garage Queen Street has many fine buildings and any new buildings should not be allowed to overwhelm or spoil the overall ambience of the street. On the side adjacent to the waterfront the building needs to blend in to the area and not stand out as an architectural statement which is what the plans seem to signify. Please think again.
