Good day David

As discussed yesterday, my only concern with this property is the long standing noise nuisance issue regarding the noisy extractor flue, which I believe is being dealt with under another application.

Although there is nothing in the brief description of the proposed works under this application, which should cause a noise nuisance, my only concern is whether part of the male toilet upgrade may include new hand driers, which if anything like the ones in the HBC toilets, could well lead to future noise complaints if the toilet window was left open.

If this is the case, then perhaps a condition included, advising that the type of hand drier would need to be agreed to by the Council, if it were to be changed out. If not the case, then I would have no adverse comment to make about this particular application.

kind regards

Mark
