The Highway Authority welcome the information, which can be used to inform future maintenance priorities in the area .

The Highway Authority were aware of the condition of the road when making their consultation response but whilst maintenance issues have been highlighted, these are existing conditions which will not be affected by the modest increase in pedestrian/cycle/vehicular use that will be generated by the new development, The new information does not have any direct bearing on the capacity of the highway network to accommodate the new development; and the condition of the surface of the highway network, is not considered dangerous. Whilst the public's concerns are noted, the network has operated safely since the alterations to the Rusty Cutter Roundabout took place which was subject to three safety audits. Therefore the Highways Authority consultation position of approval has not changed and that there is no need to defer the application.
