Why you think permission should or should not be given

Having studied all the new information submitted about this proposal, I have the following Comments
The new site plan shows a building shape which has no relation at all to elevation floor plan submitted, the rear bedroom has been shaved off making the site look bigger yet again. There are a few small notes added to the plan which are not clear if these are intended to act as part of the planning permission process or not.e.g."This dwg for discussion purposes only"
I cannot see how the planning department can make an informed decision when the facts seem incorrect
