RE: Land North of 132 Havant Road Hayling Island.

In respect of the above application I have the following comments:

Further to our site visit during the first application, I now observe that the single tree on site has been removed. It offered a very limited view from the public highway and as such did not offer sufficient amenity to be considered for a TPO.

The hedgerow fronting onto Havant Road (a mature mixed species that had lapsed in management) has now been removed and replaced with a rail and post fence. Sadly that hedge contributed greatly to the street scene and may well have required a Hedgerow Notice prior to its removal. I believe this issue is being addressed with the Enforcement people.

I have no objections to this scheme in arboricultural terms as there are no trees on site and the hedgerow has now been removed. I would like to see a hedgerow reinstated with a mixed native species; including boundary oaks as mitigation for the loss of the original hedge.

Thanks

Jamie
