Details of the pre-application advice received:

With regard to the proposed enclosure of the existing porch area I can advise that under current planning regulations (introduced October 2008) any addition forward of the principal (front) elevation of the original dwellinghouse would require planning permission. The extended porch and tiled canopy over the garage were added under planning permission 92/57568 granted 13th August 1992. I must therefore advise that the proposed porch enclosure would require planning permission.
