

Dear Mrs Haywood

With reference to the planning application for 195 dwellings on land at Sinah Lane, Hayling Island.

Whilst this is just another set of numbers for those approving such schemes and backed by the government, the impact on individuals, families, lifestyle, services, schools, wildlife and vehicular impact are more than adequate to reject this request, yet, here we are again!

There is no doubt that the introduction of finance and house availability consist of the statistics required but, believe it or not, there are still 'real' people out here trying to live a life.

The recent disastrous water main bursting on the island provides all the adequate information that is required regarding vehicular access, the current overwhelming position of vehicles is already beyond control and the introduction of another 500 vehicles daily will impact the roads to unmanageable levels, notwithstanding the dangers for emergency service attendance.

[REDACTED] we moved to North Shore Road some 12 years ago for peace and tranquillity, a healthy environment for our children and feeling of safeness. The views are superb, the beach walks (off North Shore Road) and the general feeling of calm. The impact house development has had on our area in recent years is more than enough. Constant lorries, traffic lights, road digging, houses popping up everywhere and general spoil of what was a pleasant living surround.

[REDACTED] and disruption to daily life has a huge impact. This is one individual or one family protesting, granted but there is nobody living on Hayling Island who wants this development for all the reasons listed above and the reasons listed to you in previous correspondence.

For the developers, it is profit.

For the government it is statistics.

For the welfare of the community of Hayling Island it is NO!!!!

Regards

[REDACTED]
