Hello Lesley,

I hope you've had a good holiday. I don't know if you've been out of the country or have been around to hear the constant cries of "plant more trees, it's critical" these last two weeks. All the political parties are in agreement about that at least. And so, I hope that is factored in when you make your difficult decision about the plot of land – losing so many trees for sake of just a few houses, not even a big estate.

No need to reply.

Kind regards
