To whom it may concern,
As a child, [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] I used to spend holidays at Hayling Island. My parents had a large plot of land opposite Dunsloggin.

I can confirm there was a caravan parked there and a large garage construction. There was electricity, water and a driveway onto the property. We spent two or three weeks there one year clearing the land of brambles and undergrowth. To this day I remember the smell of the bonfires and the caravan.

If you want further information contact [REDACTED] who a couple of years ago sold the plot of land. He can be reached at this address or by phone - however, his hearing is not as good as it was!

Regards,
