

Regards to the factory units being built I am very concerned as the old building it backs onto the side of my brick wall of my flat, it is (inches) from my wall I am [REDACTED] it's a fire hazard and there are pipes there can't get to them and any thing that goes wrong, nobody can access I spoke to the builder he said he got planning permission to put the new unit in the same place and will be (machinery) the whole sight will be factory units if it's built that close to my side brick wall the noise will be all day

I am very concerned about the noise with lots of new units being built these flats are for [REDACTED] (this is a reply to my recent conversation with you) i would want total sound proofing if it goes ahead and them to pay for sound proof windows and door and the old building roof is asbestos which is highly contagious when being demolished, most of the building have the same roof so I am worried about that to the noise and the dust so close to my property when knocking the old building down being so close to my brick wall and could damage my wall that concerns me.
Kind regards
[REDACTED]

Some photos never came up so I resend these regarding

The building that inches away from wall and replacing with a new unit I spoke to the builder he said he got planning permission to put unit in same place all other details have been sent to you.

Thank you [REDACTED]
