Dear Sirs,

The proposed development by Barrett Homes North of Sinah Lane is probably the most controversial development on Hayling Island in recent times. As the local Authorities have taken years and months to arrive at the present situation I like most residents feel that the fact that we have been given 23 days to review the situation and comment is grossly unfair. That is 23 days governed by the restrictions of the worst pandemic this area has known in generations. Plus the pre Christmas time is for most families the busiest time of the year. Many people are expressing the opinion that this time frame has been put in place to in a deliberate attempt to reduce the number of possible objections. In view of the importance of the decision making process it is both my view and the view of many other people that the cut off date should be extended until the end of January. This development if it goes ahead is going to seriously impact the lives of the people on Hayling Island. To date so much time having been spent on this project it would be perfectly reasonable for people to be given more time to consider the plan.

Yours sincerely,
