To: Havant Borough Council Planning Department

Dear Sirs,

I have been living in the above home for the past 52 years. Recently my long term next door neighbour died (no 6) and the property was sold. Builders have been working on a substantial extension at the back for the past 5 months.

The extension has now progress upwards. I had thought from the builder that a substantial part was to be single story but that is not the case. I have now lost a view of the sky and trees from my kitchen window, breakfast room, a bedroom and the bathroom.

I had no idea the extension was to be built and did not see any notification displayed nor was I informed (I am the only property that is impacted). I am afraid I do not use the internet so did not look anything up. I do get out and about and am sure I would have seen any notice if reasonably displayed. I have asked my neighbours and grown up children and they did not see any notification either.

I am afraid I am not familiar with planning rules but would be surprised if someone likely to be impacted does not have to be informed directly or with a prominant public notice? I have seen no such notice. Please inform me what the procedures are and whether they have been complied with.

Had I been aware of the proposed extension I would have robusted objected as the extension has had a devastating effect on my home. From the kitchen, bedroom and breakfastrom I now look at massive brick wall and roof and have had the morning sunlight taken from the entire side of my home.

I do wish this matter brought to the planning committees attention and I look forward to hearing from you about the correct processes to be followed and confirmation that they were followed in this case.
