

Dear Mr Hayward,

Over the last few years my husband has written to you re: Barratt's proposals a number of times but now it's my turn. I am as much entitled to be heard as is he or anyone else.

I wish to register my unmitigated objection to this proposal in its totality because:-

a) This island is already at a tipping point in so many ways

1. its roads are currently overloaded - don't mention water leaks!!!

2. so are its doctors, its schools

If you add to the present situation 200 more houses, 800 more people at least 300 more vehicles, at least 200 more commuters - currently bad will become intolerable !

- b) Barretts house mix is not what is needed. We need starter homes not ones as big as these.
- c) Current windfall house developments seem to be being ignored e.g flats springing up in Station Road don't seem to figure in housing plans.
- d) Barretts plans will cause the loss of viable agricultural land which can be ill afforded. We have lived here for 50 years and everyone has seen a crop of a grain, potatoes, oil seed or grass come to harvest.
- e) From a purely selfish point of view - this will cause us a massive loss of privacy and with this an incalculable loss in the value of our house which for us is our care home fund.
- f) It's high time the local Authority put its mind to considering what it really wants Hayling to be. Is it to be a viable tourist holiday destination? A developing residential commuter orientated suburb like Waterlooville, or what?

Because it is far from clear. Local Plan or no Local Plan, and often objectives are almost mutually exclusive. Acceptance of Barratts plan suggests the computer suburb in my view.

In recent elections Islanders have voted for various parties they are politically divided.

However in this matter we are 100% united - We don't want any more Barratt housing

Thank you very much.

Why don't you come and look at this beautiful corner of Hayling a haven for geese, bats, birds of every description, tranquil, it should be saved for generations to come. Sincerely
