Dear Madam

We should like to comment briefly on the above planning application as we have lived on Hayling for over 60 years.

1. The proposed size of the building, whilst a pleasing design in a larger plot/location it gives the impression of being huge with 4 bedrooms when the existing bungalow has only 1 bedroom. Surely this contradicts previous Havant policy about not increasing the number of beds in existing houses or has this policy been changed without publication to the general public?

2. The building line to the north is far beyond the line of the existing house.

3. In the proposed position it is overwhelming and out of keeping with the other buildings in that area and should be scaled down to a much smaller design that aesthetically would also look in keeping when viewed from Langstone Harbour.

4. The flat roof is also not in keeping with houses at that end of the Island so would look odd compared to neighbouring houses.

Therefore, we object to this proposal and feel that the council should reach a compromise with the owners to submit plans for a smaller dwelling.

Yours faithfully,

Angie & Chris Driscoll
